How to play 13-card Indian Rummy (quick guide)

- Objective: Arrange your 13 cards into valid sequences and/or sets. You must form at least two sequences, and one of them must be a pure (no joker) sequence.
- Sequence vs Set: A sequence is 3+ consecutive cards of the same suit. A set is 3+ cards of the same rank from different suits.
- Turn actions: On each turn, draw a card (from the closed deck or the open pile) and discard one card to the open pile.

- Declaration: Once you have at least two valid sequences and all remaining cards grouped into sequences or sets, discard a card to the â€œFinishâ€ slot and declare your hand. If your arrangement is valid, you win. ğŸ‰

Rummy variants explained

- Points Rummy: A popular format for 2â€“6 players. Each hand awards points; quick and competitive.
- Pool Rummy: Players are eliminated once their score reaches the pool limit (e.g., 101 or 201). Last player standing wins.
- Deals Rummy: Similar to Points Rummy but played over multiple deals; the player with the most chips after the final deal wins.
- Spin & Go: High-energy 3-player single-deal matches where winners can earn 2xâ€“10x their entry fee.
