> Play rummy free online with no money, no deposit and no sign-up. Six games against the computer, in English or Hindi. Which to pick and how it works.

Yes, you can play rummy free online with no money at all. On RummyCardPlay every game is free: there is no deposit, no wallet, no entry fee and nothing to win except bragging rights. You play against computer players in your browser, with no sign-up and no download, and you can switch the table to Hindi at any time. This page explains what "free" means here, which game to pick first and how it works on a phone.

What "free" means on RummyCardPlay

- No money in the games. Points and chips are only a score. Nothing is paid, won or withdrawn, and the games never ask for a deposit or for payment details.
- No sign-up. You do not create an account, and there is nothing to log in to. Your progress (a saved hand, your language and your settings) stays on your own device.
- No download. The games run in your browser. Each build is under 50 KB compressed, so it loads quickly on mobile data.
- Offline after the first visit. Once a game has loaded, you can add it to your home screen and keep playing without internet.
- Computer opponents. Every game is played against 1 to 5 computer players (one in Gin), on Easy, Medium or Hard, so there is always a table ready.

Pick a free rummy game

If you have never played, start with Points Rummy . If you are choosing between the 13 and 21-card games, read 13 card vs 21 card rummy .

How to start in three steps

- Open a game and tap the table. The game loads only when you tap, so the page itself stays light.
- Choose how many computer players you want and how strong they are. Easy is a relaxed start, Hard plays more carefully.
- Play your hand. Tap a card to select it, group cards, discard, and press Declare when your groups are valid. The game asks you to confirm first, and reminds you what a wrong declaration costs.

The computer players have names, avatars and a visible card count, and you can set the speed of their moves to Normal or Fast. Sound is off by default.

Learn the rules while you play

You do not need to read anything to start, but a few short guides help:

- How to count points in rummy , with checked examples.
- Maximum points in rummy : the 80 cap, the pool limits and the 21-card cap.
- 12 common rummy mistakes and how to avoid them.
- The rummy glossary for words like pure sequence, wild joker and first life.
- Free rummy tools : a points calculator, a declare checker and a daily puzzle.

Playing rummy for fun with friends

Our games are played against the computer, not other people. If you play with real cards at home, the free points calculator keeps the score sheet for Points, Pool, Deals and 21 Card, and the declare checker tells you whether a hand is a valid show. Agree the rules first: drop values, the cap and the wild joker rule differ between families, and Pagat's page on Indian Rummy lists common variations. For tips on keeping card games light and fun, see our page on responsible play .

Yes. All six games on RummyCardPlay are free. There is no deposit, no wallet and no cash prize. Points and chips are only a score.

No. The games run in your browser. There is no sign-up and no download. You can add a game to your home screen if you want it to open like an app.

Yes, after the first visit. Open the game once while you are online, add it to your home screen, and it keeps working without a connection.

Points Rummy: a hand is a complete game, so you learn the rules without a running pool. Then try Pool Rummy 101 for dropping decisions.

Yes. Every game has a Hindi switch at the top of the table, and there are Hindi rules pages, starting with the Hindi guide to Points Rummy .

Not at the moment. Every game here is played against computer players, so you can play at any time.
