Nine as a motif

RS9 wraps ordinary mini-games in a neon script and a mission 9 daily ladder: nine small tasks, a listed prize. Tasks include logins, a colour stake, and a share prompt. The share prompt is skippable; skip it. Completing the ladder does not change room math. It only unlocks cosmetic badges and the path to the ₹99 pack.

₹99 pack

₹99 unlocks after completing three of nine missions, not at signup. That is unusual and less deceptive than instant banners. The pack still has 7x wagering on bonus. Missions are not a second bonus — they are the key to the first one. If you will not log in three separate days, do not start the ladder just to chase ninety-nine rupees.

Rooms

Colour, number, and a low-rise crash. Each room is numbered in the nav (R1, R2, R9). R9 is just a higher-stake colour table, not a jackpot engine. The name is marketing. Stake steps in R9 jump faster than in R1, which is how a “quick mission stake” becomes an oversized colour bet.

Bank transfer

UPI plus bank transfer. ₹199 floor. Bank transfer out took a working day in our note, so UPI is the practical path. IFSC typos are on you; the form does not live-validate the code. Paste from your bank app rather than typing, and keep the UPI option as the default for test exits.

Ladder fatigue

Daily missions reset at a server midnight that was not IST on the first day we checked (it aligned later). Do not grind at 11:50 PM assuming a lock-in. The colour-stake mission can be satisfied at R1 minimums — there is no need to visit R9 to tick the box.

Disclosure

Better than Mulu Win: there is an in-app FAQ and a named grievance email. Still no lab certificate on the colour or crash rooms. Mid-pack trust, mid-pack games. Save ticket IDs from the FAQ form rather than screenshot-only chats.

Close

RS9 is a mission-gated colour/crash wallet. If you hate daily tasks, the ₹99 pack is not worth the taps. Play cash in R1–R2, treat R9 as a higher colour table only, and use UPI for the ₹199 test exit.

Common questions

After three of nine daily missions in our sample, not at raw signup. Then 7x wagering still applies.

No. It was a higher-stake colour table with a louder name.

UPI was faster. Bank transfer waited a working day and the IFSC field did not live-validate.
