Understand how Rummy Ranks treats basic browsing signals, support email, and data once you leave for third-party operators.

- Updated 12 June 2026

Rummy Ranks ships as a static site. There are no on-site user accounts, wallets, or mandatory profiles to browse rankings, reviews, or policies.

Technical logs

Hosting providers, CDNs, or analytics vendors may record routine access logs. If measurement tools like Google Analytics are enabled in production, they exist for aggregate traffic insight—not for building individual player dossiers.

Third-party destinations

When you follow a link to an operator, that brand's privacy statement governs everything collected after the click. We cannot see or control their cookies, device graphs, or verification flows.

Email messages

Correspondence sent to [email protected] is read only to investigate your note and reply. We do not sell those threads or combine them with advertising profiles.
